3. Davis, Henry H.: IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, NINTH CIRCUIT, NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA. SARAH MITCHELL, PLAINTIFF, VS. FREDERICK W. SHARON, DEFENDANT. REPLY BRIEF OF PLAINTIFF TO DEFENDANT'S BRIEF ON DEMURRER TO COMPLAINT. [San Francisco: 1890s]. Original printed front wrapper with wrapper title, as issued. Disbound. 26pp. Later rubberstamped pagination from a larger series of documents on this case. Presentation inscription from Davis on front wrapper. About Very Good.

Sharon had accused Ms. Mitchell of making "blackmailing demands" for money from the vast Sharon estate; and that she had concocted a "blackmailing scheme" to do so. Frederick Sharon was Executor of the Estate of William Sharon, whose involvement with Sarah Hill had sparked the most notorious litigation in 19th century California.

Ms. Mitchell claimed that Sharon's statements constituted slander per se, i.e., that Sharon had accused her of committing the crime of blackmail. Sharon demurred, that is, he claimed that, even if Ms. Mitchell's version of the facts were true, they did not comprise the crime of blackmail. Despite her attorney's best efforts, the court ruled in Sharon's favor. 51 F. 424 [1892]. Affirming, the Circuit Court held, 15 C.C. 353, 357 [1894], "Upon the consideration of all of defendant's words, it is impossible to find in them the charge that the plaintiff has made a blackmailing demand upon the Sharon estate."

4. Doten, Lizzie: "RECONSTRUCTION." "VOX POPULI, VOX DEI." A POEM DELIVERED IN LIBRARY HALL, CHELSEA, AT THE CLOSE OF A LECTURE ON SUNDAY EVENING, SEPT. 23D. [Boston?: 1866]. Broadside, 5-1/4" x 11." Text within an elaborate decorative border. Light toning. Outer margin printing: "Sold by J.S. Dodge, 127 Hanover Street, Boston, dealer in Fancy Goods, Jewelry, &c." Except as noted, Very Good.

Doten was "considered the greatest female improvisator of the nineteenth century" [article on Doten in Encyclopedia.com]. "Elizabeth Doten (1829-1913), who had supported herself since adolescence, became financially independent as a Spiritualist trance-speaker during the two decades before the Civil War. Her lectures and writings address various issues of women's rights, especially economic inequality and the double standard of morality between men and women. She claimed to have spoken several of her poems under the 'direct spirit influence' of writers such as Shakespeare, Robert Burns, Edgar Allan Poe, and Mrs. Hemans" [biography of Doten at web site of Goodreads].

Her poem, a powerful dissent from President Andrew Johnson's appeasement of the defeated South, angrily protests his abandonment of Northern war aims. "Was it that those YOU CONQUERED should return to you at last / As much the lords and masters of this land as in the past? / To fill their empty coffers with a bountiful increase / and in the halls of Congress to DICTATE TERMS OF PEACE" [Italics in original]. She is contemptuous of Johnson: "Alas! Alas! that Pharaoh should sit in Moses' seat!" She urges, "Up, then! and make you ready for the work that must be done, / And let the Ballot finish what the Bayonet has begun."

5. Du Bois, William E.: TRIAL OF LUCRETIA CHAPMAN, OTHERWISE CALLED LUCRETIA ESPOS Y MINA, WHO WAS JOINTLY INDICTED WITH LINO AMALIA ESPOS Y MINA, FOR THE MURDER OF WILLIAM CHAPMAN, ESQ. LATE OF ANDALUSIA, COUNTY OF BUCKS, PENNSYLVANIA, IN THE COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER, HELD AT DOYLESTOWN, FOR BUCKS, DECEMBER TERM, 1831, CONTINUED TO FEBRUARY TERM, 1832. PREPARED FOR PUBLICATION, BY... STUDENT OF LAW. Philadelphia: G.W. Mentz & Son, 1832. Later cloth. [2], 213, [1 blank], 11 pp. With the

Supplement on the trial of Lino which, as Cohen notes, was sometimes excluded from the book. Scattered foxing, lacks front free endpaper, rear endpaper dirty, light rubberstamp on title page, Good+.

Lucretia, "past forty and buxom," and Lino, a young boarder who claimed to be the son of the Spanish governor of California, became lovers; a decision was reached to rid themselves of Lucretia's inconvenient husband. "Five weeks after he arrived Lino purchased a quarter of a pound of arsenic from a Philadelphia druggist, explaining that he used it in stuffing birds. The following day Mr. Chapman was taken ill; four days later he was dead." Soon thereafter the lovers "were quietly married in New York...Almost immediately the true character of the Spanish adventurer came out, with the disappearance of the family silver and other obvious signs of his chicanery." His activities came to the attention of the police, who decided to investigate Mr. Chapman's death. They discovered that "he was heavily dosed with arsenic" and arrested them both.

This book contains all the material on Lucretia's trial. Lino was tried separately, convicted, and executed. Lucretia was acquitted. "It is difficult to tell whether they had acted in concert in the murder; at least the jury gave her the benefit of the doubt" [quotations from McDade].

FROM THE SHORT-HAND NOTES OF MARSH & OSBOURNE, OFFICIAL REPORTERS OF THE COURTS. San Francisco: San Francisco Co-Operative Printing Company, 1871. 4to. Bound in modern cloth without the wrappers. Frontis portraits of Fair and Crittenden. [8], 4, 325, [1 blank], xvii, [1 blank] pp. Printed in double columns. First two gatherings sprung, with crude tape repair and loss of several letters in the first four pages. Some minor edge chipping to first few leaves, archival tape repair of closed tear on verso of Fair portrait. . Else a clean text. Good.

"Crittenden, a noted lawyer, was shot on the San Francisco ferry by Mrs. Fair (who had already had four husbands) because he would not divorce his wife and marry her" [McDade]. Crittenden, a member of the prominent Kentucky Crittenden family, was killed as he left the ferry to meet his wife. Fair's lover for seven years, he had refused to acknowledge paternity of their newborn daughter.

Fair's conviction resulted in a sentence of death, evidently the first capital sentence imposed on a woman in California. But trial errors resulted in a reversal on appeal. Fair's defense argued insanity, a female hysteria caused by "scanty and retarded menstruation, a chronic disease of the womb," and similar maladies. Medical witnesses testified that such illnesses were common among women and that Fair, thus afflicted, followed an irresistible impulse to kill him. FIRST EDITION. McDade 291. Cowan 201. . [np: c. 1828]. [2] pp, entirely in ink manuscript, 12-1/2" x 7-3/4." Small corner torn away with loss of a couple of short words. Otherwise, Very Good.

The document purports to be statements from two men-- "William Rodgers" and "W.B."-- claiming that Andrew Jackson was the illegitimate son of a prostitute-- Fanny Jennings-- and an enslaved man, "one fourth in the African blood." A court allegedly gave him his name and bound him to Lawyer Avery. Neither statement is dated or attested, and no location is given. The identity of William Rodgers and W.B. is unknown.

The campaign rumor regarding Jackson's mother is well-known. See, for example, Heidler, The Rise of Andrew Jackson. A nearly identical text appeared in the Burlington (Vermont) Sentinel and Democrat on 22 August 1828, accompanied by the newspaper's denunciation of the allegation as "entirely outraging every conception of decency and propriety," originating with "base and fiend-like attempts which some of the friends of Mr. Adams are now industriously making to bring reproach upon... the deceased mother of the patriot and hero."

This is Nathaniel Wice's Complaint for Divorce from Rhoda Wice. They married in August 1835. In those ancient days before "No-Fault" divorces became the norm, specific grounds for divorce-- desertion and adultery, for example-- had to be established. Nathaniel asserts that Rhoda left him "without cause" and has "taken up with one Jessie Williams living with him in a state of adultery." He finds it "painful to continue bound by law to a woman so faithless..." Mr. Wice signs the complaint, as does his attorney [Atchison & Leonard].

Ancestry's online site shows Rhoda and Jessie marrying in March 1839, four months BEFORE Nathaniel's petition. This renders her a bigamist as well as an adulteress. (36821)

"This is another case of a husband's shooting a man suspected of being his wife's lover and getting away with it" [McDade]. Montgomery, this pamphlet's author, was hired specially to prosecute Schroder. He had recently retired after a long, successful career as a trial lawyer, in order to devote his energies to reform in public education. But this case induced him to return to the legal wars: "Dr. LeFevre had for many years been my dentist, my client, and my friend ... I believed him to have been foully murdered by an assassin who, after killing him was seeking to destroy his reputation by falsely charging him with the seduction of his wife in order to paliate the murder." Angered by this libel upon his now defenseless friend, he decided to "assist in the prosecution of the murderer." He did so without fee.

However, his efforts-- "to vindicate the good name of the slandered dead and to assist to the extent of my humble ability in protecting society against a repetition of similar deeds of blood in the future"-- failed: Schroder, a man "considerably addicted to playing cards and speculation in stocks," was acquitted. In fact, says Montgomery, Schroder committed an "unmerciful beating of his wife" to force her to testify to a "criminal intercourse with Dr. Le Fevre" that had never occurred. And LeFevre, in his dying declaration, said that Schroder had murdered him "without any cause!"

THE GREAT DUKES TRIAL AT UNION TOWN, PA. FULL ACCOUNT, AND ALL "THOSE TERRIBLE LETTERS." Philadelphia: Barclay and Company, [1883?]. Original pale green printed and illustrated wrappers. Stitched. 8 full-page plates, plus rear wrapper illustration of the murder. Pages [17]-79, [1] [as issued]. Disbound rather roughly, rubberstamped front wrapper and title page, wraps detached but present. One illustration plate with short tape repair. Text tanned. Complete. Good.

Nicholas L. Dukes, a successful attorney, called off his engagement to Lizzie Nutt; he feared that her reputation was not unsullied. Soon thereafter Captain Adam Nutt, Lizzie's father, confronted Dukes in a misguided defense of his daughter's honor. During a scuffle Dukes shot and killed Captain Nutt. Dukes, pleading self-defense, was acquitted; the jury allegedly contained many of his friends. A few months later James Nutt, Captain Nutt's son, shot Dukes dead. James Nutt was acquitted by reason of insanity.

McDade notes that, "There are various editions of this work, all with the same title page but with different cover titles." This one, which McDade calls the third edition, has a wrapper title, "The very pathetic and truly remarkable trial of young James Nutt. The avenger of his father's death." Its copyright date is 1883, the year of the murder; McDade's copy was copyrighted 1884. This is a typically sensational Barclay crime pamphlet.

24. [Richardson, Emily]: A STATEMENT OF PROCEEDINGS AGAINST MRS. EMILY RICHARDSON, IN THE SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH IN READING, MASS. SECOND EDITION. Charlestown [MA]: Published by Wm. H. Wheldon, 1832. Original plain wrappers, stitched, 38pp. A pleasing, untrimmed copy in its unsophisticated state. Toned with scattered foxing, else Very Good.

The pamphlet is a tale of religious persecution in Massachusetts, against a lady of sterling character who failed to accept the divinity of Christ, but who regarded him as the Messiah and human Son of God. It exposes the ill treatment of those with Unitarian sympathies, and the dangers of insistence upon religious orthodoxy. Two editions were evidently published in 1832.

Mrs. Richardson sought admission to the Second Congregational Church in Charlestown, where she had recently moved. Its minister sought information about her from her previous church in Reading. The First Congregational Church in Reading had expelled her for turning toward Unitarianism. Its minister explained that his Church had "withdrawn all Christian watch and fellowship" from her for "violation of her own covenant vows" and her "departure" from orthodoxy. This pamphlet describes the First Church's disgraceful treatment of Mrs. Richardson: its minister and elders had frequently quizzed her closely about her theological beliefs, accused her of denying Christ's divinity, scolded her for poor church attendance and for propagating "pernicious statements" to Church members, and called her to account at Church meetings. OCLC records seven locations, under several accession numbers, as of July 2015.

26. Scott, Mary: THE WOMAN'S JOURNAL. OFFICIAL ORGAN OF THE WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNIONS OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA. "FOR GOD, AND HOME AND NATIVE LAND." Ottawa, Canada: February, 1890. 8pp. Stitched. Folio, with caption title. Vol. 6. No. 6. Old folds, Near Fine.

The Woman's Journal was a periodical, "Published Monthly by Miss Mary Scott" of Ottawa, Canada. Its mission was Temperance: the articles focus on the evils of alcohol, troubling news about the presence of alcohol in medicines, ongoing activities in branches of the WCTU in Canada, and a variety of advertisements.

Mary Scott, a lifelong temperance advocate, "In January, 1889, became editor and proprietor of the 'Woman's Journal,' the organ of the Dominion Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Her literary work has been confined to stories and descriptions of travel for Canadian papers. She is an earnest advocate for the prohibition of the liquor traffic and uses all the weapons at her command. Her home is in Ottawa" [Wikisource article on "Woman of the Century/ Mary Scott"].

Pawtucket, R.I.: A.W. Pearce, Printer, 1850. Original printed wrappers, stitched, 96pp. Full-page illustration of the murder scene. The rear wrapper advertises, "Agents Wanted to sell this book in all parts of the United States and the British Provinces, and in all parts of Europe where the English language is spoken." Very Good plus.

"Streeter's wife decided to leave him because of his insane threats and suspicions. When she started a suit to do so, he cut her throat as well as his own, though he survived. His death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment" [McDade]. Phrenological information is provided.

"The disordered mind of Milton W. Streeter" is described in detail. As Cohen points out, the book is "An early psychological approach to a domestic murder, in which the reader's sympathy is developed for both the victim and the murderer, the latter having been deprived of a Christian upbringing" [Cohen].

TOGETHER WITH THE LIVES OF ALBERT J. TIRRELL AND MARY ANN BICKFORD. REPORTED FOR THE BOSTON DAILY TIMES BY J.E.P. WEEKS, ESQ. Last leaf with a tear [early, crude repair] and loss of a couple of letters. Else Good+.

"The murder of a harlot seems to lend a special interest to a case which is measurable by the many publications which ensue. The Tirrell case is one of the triumphs of Rufus Choate, who convinced the jury that his client did not cut the throat of Mrs. Bickford, or, if he did, he did it in his sleep" [McDade 986].

JUDGE BREWSTER'S CHARGE TO THE JURY IN FULL. TO WHICH ARE ADDED MANY INTERESTING FACTS IN REGARD TO THE HILLS AND TWITCHELLS NEVER BEFORE PUBLISHED. Philadelphia: Barclay & Co., [1869]. [2], 19-90pp, as issued, with six full-page illustrations. Stitched in original printed wrappers, the front wrap illustrated with a portrait of Twitchell, the rear wrap with an illustration of the murder. Light wrapper wear, a clean text. Very Good.

A trademark Barclay gruesome, sensational story. Mrs. Hill's body was found dead in her yard by a servant girl. Mr. Twitchell and his wife, Camilla Twitchell, claimed that she must have fallen from a second story window. But the evidence indicated that Mrs. H. was beaten with a poker, and then thrown out the window to simulate an accident. Both Twitchells were arrested. Camilla was acquitted; but George was found guilty and sentenced to hang. On the day of his execution, George Twitchell committed suicide.

BURROWS, ON WEDNESDAY, 27TH AND THURSDAY, 28TH NOVEMBER, 1833. [New York: 1833]. 20pp, caption title [as issued]. Inner margins of first and last leaf tanned. Else scattered spotting, light tan. Good+

This pamphlet consists of a summary of the testimony and closing arguments, and ends with the discharge of the hopelessly deadlocked jury. Burrows was "an eminent and wealthy merchant," whose alleged "illicit amours" had caused plaintiff's impregnation. The trial was sensational and the "court was crowded to excess immediately on the opening of the doors." Plaintiff, though her manners were "lady-like," was otherwise undistinguished, lacking "that enticing, fascinating influence, which would seem to induce a direlection of the rules of chastity or propriety. She is what Byron would call 'a dumpy woman'-- short in stature; with dark hair and eyes, and a mild, honest, innocent, unsophisticated countenance."

31. [Wharton, Elizabeth G.]: TRIAL OF MRS. ELIZABETH G. WHARTON, ON THE CHARGE OF POISONING GENERAL W.S. KETCHUM. TRIED AT ANNAPOLIS, MD. DECEMBER, 1871 - JANUARY, 1872. [Baltimore]: Reported and Published by The Baltimore Gazette, [1872]. [2], 172pp. Stitched. Original printed wrappers [closed tear to the front wrap, not affecting printing; wraps lightly dusted; wrapper spine worn, with rear wrap detaching]. Inner front wrapper advertises Baltimore's Howard Hotel; rear wrapper advertises the Baltimore Gazette, "A Well-Known Conservative Journal." Text clean and bright. Ownership signature on front wrap of "Capt. A.B. Beers." Very Good.

Mrs. Wharton was acquitted, after a 42-day trial, of poisoning General W.S. Ketchum, to whom she owed $2600. The jury "heard nothing of the sudden death of Mrs. Wharton's son the year before during a visit to her and her collection of the policies on his life. Nor did they hear that another financial adviser to this estimable lady, a Mr. Van Ness, had nearly perished in her household shortly before the arrival of the General. It is not surprising that the New York Sun dubbed her 'the Baltimore Borgia.' There was a spate of pamphlets after the trial by the 'expert' witnesses belittling each others' judgments and qualifications and generally expressing that contrariety of opinion so bewildering to laymen" [McDade].

William Scott Ketchum [1813-1871], a West Point graduate, served in the Seminole Wars; the Civil War commanding Fort Dalles in Oregon and protecting settlers from Indian raids. He achieved the rank of Brigadier General of Volunteers in 1862 and was sent to Washington, D.C., for inspection and recruiting duties. After the War he worked in the Adjutant General's office, retiring six months before his suspicious death.

Capt. A.B. Beers was probably Alfred Bishop Beers [1845-1920], a Connecticut native who served as Captain with the 6th Connecticut Volunteers during the Civil War. He was admitted to the Bridgeport bar in 1871, was clerk of the Bridgeport City Court from 1873-1875, Assistant City Attorney in 1876, and Judge of the Bridgeport City Court from 1877-1893.

IN THE MEAN TIME IF YOU HAVE EVEN AN IDLE HOUR WE WOULD BE GLAD TO SEE YOU AT OUR HOME AS YOUR NAME HAS BECOME ONE OF ADDED INTEREST TO US THROUGH YOUR ASSOCIATION WITH THE SAD TRAGEDY WHICH THREW SO MUCH UNHAPPINESS AROUND OUR HOME CIRCLE IN VIRGINIA. | VERY SINCERELY YOURS | ADELE CUTTS WILLIAMS." [offered with] Williams, Robert: AUTOGRAPH LETTER SIGNED, FROM ADELE CUTTS DOUGLAS WILLIAMS'S HUSBAND, TO HON. JOHN S. WISE OF RICHMOND, VIRGINIA, EXPRESSING UNHAPPINESS AT BEING UNAVAILABLE WHEN WISE WAS PRESENT IN CHICAGO. "I HAVE BEEN VERY UNWELL SINCE MY RETURN FROM THE WEST ... IT WOULD HAVE AFFORDED ME GREAT PLEASURE TO HAVE MADE YOUR ACQUAINTANCE INDEPENDENTLY OF THE OPPORTUNITY IT WOULD HAVE AFFORDED ME TO TALK OVER WITH YOU THE SITUATION OF THE BARBOUR CASE ... MRS. WILLIAMS ENJOYED YOUR VISIT EXCEEDINGLY ... R. WILLIAMS." July 20, 1888. Single leaf, on personal stationery with "R. Williams, U.S.A. | Pullman Building | Chicago" printed in red type in upper left corner. Page [1] is filled with Williams's ink manuscript, plus six lines on page [2]. Very Good.

John Wise was the son of Virginia Governor and politician Henry Wise, a Confederate officer during the Civil War. John, a VMI cadet, fought for the Confederacy at the Battle of New Market; Williams was a Virginian who fought for the Union.

"Adele Cutts was the daughter of James Madison Cutts, a government official, and Ellen (O'Neale) Cutts. Tall, with striking features and chestnut hair, her beauty, intellect, and personality made her a leading belle in Washington society. In early 1856, Sen. Stephen A.

Douglas (1813-1861) of Illinois, who was then a widower with two sons, met Adele Cutts and on November 20, 1856, they were married. From this union they had one daughter, but the child survived for only a few months. Senator Douglas was defeated in the Presidential election of 1860 and died of natural causes on June 3, 1861. In 1865, Adele Cutts Douglas met Capt. (later Gen.) Robert Williams, U.S.A., and they married in January 1866. They lived for many years in army posts in the West and had six children. Two of their sons served in the army and their eldest daughter married an army officer" [Find a Grave on line].

"Five years after Stephen Douglas' death, Adele remarried Captain Robert Williams, a career army officer from Virginia who had remained loyal to the Union. She took on the life of an army wife, and raised their six children in the western territories. Williams ended his long career in 1893 as Adjutant General of the Army" [Flickr on line].

"The Barbour Case," a much-publicized murder trial in Culpeper, Virginia, was probably the "sad tragedy" to which Adele's Letter referred. "One of the most desperate and deadly shooting affrays that ever happened in this vicinity occurred here this morning, between Edwin Barbour, editor of the Piedmont Advance, and Ellis B. Williams, son of Governor Williams, editor of the Culpeper Exponent, resulting in the death of Williams and the serious wounding of Barbour" [Article, 'From Pens to Pistols, at online Central Rappahannock Regional Library'].
