7. [Bartlett, John Stephen]: REPORT OF THE EVIDENCE IN THE CASE OF JOHN STEPHEN BARTLETT, M. D. VERSUS THE MASS. MEDICAL SOCIETY, AS GIVEN BEFORE A COMMITTEE OF THE LEGISLATURE, AT THE SESSION OF 1839. PRINTED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE, BY ORDER OF THE HOUSE. Boston: Dutton and Wentworth, State Printers, 1839. 55, [1 blank] pp, stitched, untrimmed, light dustsoiling of untrimmed edges. Near Fine except for the absence of wrappers. "5/4 cts Postage" in ink on final blank.

After the Massachusetts Medical Society had expelled him, Bartlett sought to revoke the Society's Charter. The case illustrates the early efforts of medical societies to control physicians' treatment of their patients. The Society had tossed Bartlett for praising a physician who, the Society contended, was a quack. Bartlett said the Society itself "tended to promote quackery." Moreover, it sought exclusive privileges for its members and prohibited "consultation with any who do not become members of that body." Witnesses are sworn and testimony presented. Benjamin Franklin Hallett represented Dr. Bartlett.

GIBSON, PROF. WILTBANK, WM. BADGER, ESQ., W.L. HIRST, ESQ., REV. ALBERT BARNES, DR. HENRY A. BOARDMAN, &C. Philadelphia: T.K. Collins, Jr., 1855. 30, [2 blanks] pp. Disbound, title page margins toned. Good+.

Beale, a dentist, had allegedly raped his female patient after he anesthetized her with ether. The author laments, "If she had first consulted her mother after the supposed outrage had been perpetrated upon her, the disgusting disclosures, which have crimsoned every cheek with shame, would probably never have been made. But, unfortunately, she fell into the hands of those whose zeal outstripped their discretion."

The pamphlet summarizes the trial, the jury's verdict [guilty, with a recommendation of mercy], the surprise that the verdict generated, Dr. Beale's stirring Address to the court at his sentencing, the court's imposition of a six-month prison term, and the post-sentencing efforts to vindicate his reputation and spring him from jail. Medical testimony and articles from learned journals are submitted to demonstrate the unreliability of the accuser's description of her experiences while under the influence of ether; and character references from pillars of the community are offered. But the appearance of rumors that Beale had similarly treated other helpless women thwarted these efforts.

Philadelphia: Printed by T. Dobson, 1791. viii, 570, xxix, [1] pp. Contemporary calf [spine repair]. Light to moderate scattered foxing. Twelve folding plates. Good+.

"Bell studied under the Munros at Edinburgh. He was surgeon to the Royal Infirmary, Edinburgh for 29 years. He improved the methods of amputation, introducing the 'triple incision of Bell.'" [Garrison & Morton 5579] This "is his best work." [Id.]

The Preface explains the book's purpose: to provide "a selection of the more essential parts of Mr. Bell's work," which in its unabridged form is "extended to so great a length, as to be not only expensive, but exceedingly inconvenient." Waters has taken care that "nothing useful, immediately relating to surgery, should be omitted." The plates, which appear in the Appendix along with a complete text explanation of each, were engraved by James Trenchard. They depict various surgical instruments.

underlining. Good plus.

A highly regarded lawyer, Stearns had just finished his appointment, by President Cleveland, as U.S.
Attorney for Massachusetts. This Argument set him against the State's medical establishment, "which formally arrayed themselves against the untutored professional curers of all descriptions, not excepting, of course, the Christian Science cranks, and have prepared a bill for their utter annihilation to be introduced into the Massachusetts Legislature. To fight this measure the so-called quacks all over the country are combining. They are organizing, if you please, a quack trust, and have engaged the very best legal talent available." [V The Medical Visitor 109-110, No. 4, April 1889.]

Stearns defiantly, but with humor, defends the right of Christian Scientists to practice their profession. "I take great pleasure, personal pleasure, in appearing to-day before you for the quacks of Massachusetts... God forbid that in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts we shall live to see Mrs. Choate, and Mrs. Eddy, and Mrs.
Batchelder, and other ladies, dragged to jail under this bill, and with fetters on their limbs, for teaching the people that God is health and sickness is sin. It makes my blood boil to talk about it." The galleries, evidently packed with the Bill's opponents, repeatedly applaud.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT. Woodstock: Printed by Lewis Pratt, Jr., 1854. 85pp, with rubberstamp and light blindstamp. Bound in later library buckram, gum label at spine base. Good+.

"An important medico-legal case against the Professor of Surgery in the Dartmouth Medical College" [Eberstadt]. Crosby's Preface says the malpractice action "is the first suit ever brought against a consulting Surgeon... From the first I had no doubt but that I should be honorably acquitted." The case was tried before a jury of twelve men. Plaintiff, Lorenzo Slack of Vermont, claimed that Crosby had negligently treated a fracture of his thigh bone. Opening statements, plaintiff's testimony, his witnesses' testimony, and cross-examination are summarized; as is the testimony of defendant and his witnesses. Each side presents expert testimony from physicians.

Crosby's connection with the plaintiff had been minimal-- he helped the primary physician set a splint, and that ended his involvement. The jury found in the doctor's favor.

A few lines blank on one interior page [printer's error]. The booklet has a brief introduction of Dake's beliefs and practice of magnetic therapy, a biographical sketch, an appendix of testimonials. Good+ to Very Good.

Dumont C. Dake [1838-1902], a well-known homeopath, was born in New York into a long line of traditional and homeopathic physicians. He studied and practiced with his father and uncle, and then enlisted during the Civil War with Company F of the 46th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Infantry for three years. He was afterward appointed to the Revenue Service under Secretary Chase.

He practiced in Rochester, New York, and then Chicago for a time, specializing in homeopathy and magnetic therapies. His practice was a great success. He and his wife Della moved to New York City in 1879, where he graduated from the United States Medical College in 1882 and set up a new practice, with patients from Maine to California. Della also attended the United States Medical College, graduating in 1883. Dumont and Della divorced in 1885, amid a bit of a scandal: this was Della's second divorce; she immediately married Andrew Jackson Davis, a traveling medium, fellow class graduate, and adulterer. 27. Dillard, Dr. William S.: TWO MEDICAL LEDGERS OF DR. WILLIAM S. DILLARD, OF NELSON COUNTY VIRGINIA, 1848-1856; AND 1874-1885. 1848-1856: 13-1/2" x 8-1/4," suede covers, pages numbered to 118. 1874-1885: 8" x 12", marbled paper over board. Page numbers stamped up to 640, but generally blank after page 190, Both with moderate soil and scattered foxing, Good+.

These journals are both medical ledgers and, to a lesser extent, records of farm concerns, notes on horse breeding, hay bales, recipes; instructions, such as how to make grapes into raisins, how to make hard soap, how to tan hides, how to fatten horses. The back cover of the second volume contains the notation of Dillard's mother's death. The first several pages of each ledger are structured like an address book, with an alphabetical list of Dr. Dillard's patients. Subsequent pages detail treatment of patients, catalogued under the head of the household or person responsible for payment.

Dr. Dillard denotes when a patient is "negro" or "colored" and, in one case, "free negro" (Daniel Cooper, vol. I, C). Dr. Dillard did not withhold his medical skills from people of color. In the earlier ledger nearly every page contains at least one, often several notations of treatment of African-American patients. An unnumbered page (that would be 120) near the end of the first volume lists surgeries for 1850-1854, all for Negro patients. This is followed by a list of deliveries for 1849-1856, recording name, sex, and whether the child was full term.

The second ledger contains more of the same, with treatment entries up to page 192, many blank pages, followed by more prosaic transactions at the back of the volume (pp. 632-640), including gardening supplies and farming matters.

Dr. Dillard notes the prices for his services, whether payment was made, and if compensation took place by barter (vol. II, 103, "credit by filling wagon wheel"; vol. II, 175, a very complicated payment history for John Horsley, including a payment of $10 that "I had forgotten.") In May 1849 he removed Mrs. Patsy Stevens' tonsils for $10 (vol. I, p. 21). [On March 12, 1850, he charged Howard L. Brown $1 to "introduce a rectal tube" (vol. I, p. 53). Dillard also treated the seemingly beleaguered Thompson family, designating Chas. Thompson as "One-eyed" and Jas. Thompson as "Pauper" (vol. I, T). In short, Dr. Dillard seemed to conduct a very even-handed practice, administering to people regardless of their color, social status, or ability to pay.

Dingley graduated from Harvard in 1785. He died in New York's yellow fever epidemic of 1798. This is the first edition, reprinted in the following year. Dr. Dingley opines that "the true cause of intermitting fevers, and various other disorders, is the carbonic acid; or some other peculiar gas, or mephitic exhalation, generated by fermentation in our swamps and stagnant waters." He anticipates that improvements in medicine will follow from greater sophistication in managing climate, the environment, science, and agriculture; but warns of the "diseases that will probably be produced by manufactures." Striking a blow against quackery, he proposes "abolishing all nostrums, or secret remedies in your society." Dingley urges support for the City-Dispensary, a hospital for the poor, and for the incorporation of the Medical Society.

29. Farrell, H.G.: H.G. FARRELL'S CELEBRATED ARABIAN LINIMENT. A CERTAIN CURE FOR ALL KINDS OF RHEUMATISM. [Peoria, Illinois: 1847]. Broadside, 8-1/2" x 10-1/4", illustrated in the center with a sketch of an Arabian oasis, with trees, angels, a horse, and a loving couple. Light edge wear and toning. Else Very Good. Signed at the end in typescript by Farrell.

A rare Peoria broadside. It describes the curative powers of the Arabian Liniment for soreness and swelling of the breast, pain and weakness in the back and joints, sprains, paralysis or loss of power in the limbs, etc. "It penetrates the flesh to the bone." Moreover, it "effectually and speedily cures most of the diseases of horses..."

Hiram G. Farrell began his career in 1836 as a clerk in his brother's Peoria drugstore; he was fourteen years old. The two would have a falling-out: each advertised the Arabian Liniment, and claimed the other's was inferior. H.G. retired in 1903 at the age of 80, "a shrewd and industrious druggist" who "made a fortune from Farrell's Arabian Liniment" [Bogard, 'Peoria's Pioneer Druggists, the Farrells, and Farrell's Arabian Liniment', in 24 Pharmacy in History 99-105 (1982)]. This broadside claims the liniment is "Manufactured only by H.G. Farrell, sole inventor and proprietor and wholesale Druggist, No. 17 Main-st. Peoria, Ill."

FARRELL, SOLE INVENTOR AND PROPRIETOR, AND WHOLESALE DRUGGIST, NO. 17, MAIN STREET, PEORIA, ILL. PRICE FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE. [Peoria, Illinois: 185-?]. Broadside, 6-5/8" x 5", illustrated in the center with a sketch of an Arabian oasis, with trees, angels, a horse, and a loving couple. Light edge wear and toning. Else Very Good. Signed at the end in typescript by Farrell. A rare Peoria item. We have recited its contents in full.

[offered with] H.G. FARRELL'S CELEBRATED ARABIAN LINIMENT. MANUFACTURED ONLY BY H.G. FARRELL, SOLE INVENTOR AND PROPRIETOR, AND WHOLESALE DRUGGIST, NO. 17, MAIN STREET, PEORIA, ILL. Broadside accounting sheet for Farrell's distributors. 7-3/4" x 9-3/4", with the usual illustration. Light wear, printed on pale blue paper. Very Good.

The second item warns of spurious imitations: "Do not touch any other, or you will get a spurious article! Look WELL, OR YOU WILL BE DECEIVED! BEWARE PARTICULARLY OF A NEW COUNTERFEIT which has just made its appearance, called W.B. FARRELL'S Arabian Liniment, and is called by this impostor the 'Original.' Remember that the ONLY GENUINE always has the letters H.G. before Farrell's."

Hiram G. Farrell began his career in 1836 as a clerk in his brother's Peoria drugstore; he was fourteen years old. The two would have a falling-out, as is evident here. CONTAINING (BESIDES WHAT BELONGS TO AN ALMANACK) A VARIETY OF MATTER, USEFUL AND ENTERTAINING. BY DANIEL GEORGE, PHILOMATH. Newbury-Port: Printed and Sold by John Mycall, and Draper & Folsom of Boston, [1778].

Stitched, 12 leaves as issued. Light wear, Very Good.

This is a scarce Revolutionary-era almanac, which issued from Boston as well as Newburyport. Ours is "identical in content with the Draper & Folsom (Boston, 1778) edition, except that the list of roads at end is less extensive" [ESTC]. This imprint was issued in two states-- the other lists the printer as J. Mycall instead of John Mycall.

The almanac describes "The grand Pilgrimage to Mecca," warns of "The Danger of exorbitant Taxes," advises "How to remove Freckles," discloses a cure for cholera and flux, and prints "Excellent Receipts for the Jaundice... For the Dropsy." Also included are tables of roads.

BOSTON, MAY, 1873. [Boston: 1873]. Original printed wrappers, stitched. 60, [1], [3 blanks] pp. Front wrapper spotted and detached [but present]; some light spotting to lower blank margins of first several leaves. Good+.

The Massachusetts Medical Society preferred charges against Bushnell, Fuller, and six other physician members of the Society for "Conduct unbecoming and unworthy an honorable physician and member of this Society," i.e., practicing homeopathy. The Society's Board of Trial conducted the proceedings "at the Society's Rooms." The alleged miscreants purportedly sought to "disorganize and destroy" the Massachusetts Medical Society, and to become members of the Massachusetts Homoeopathic Medical Society. A By-Law of the Massachusetts Medical Society prohibited any Member from professing "to cure diseases by Spiritualism, Homoeopathy, or Thompsonianism."

With defendants protesting what they regarded as a kangaroo-court, the trial proceeded. The detailed closing arguments for "the Accused" are printed here, as well as summaries of the testimony. In what was a foregone conclusion, they were all found guilty and expelled from the Massachusetts Medical Society.

Original printed wrappers, the front wrapper illustrated with a portrait of Dr. Hughes. Some wrapper spotting and wear. Text clean, but a printer's flaw at page 52 affects several letters without obscuring their meaning. Good+.

This is the 58-page edition, which adds Hughes's farewell letter. The other printing is 57 pages. In August 1865, "Jealous and intoxicated, Hughes, on the streets of Bedford, Ohio, shot the seventeen-year-old girl he had seduced. At his execution, he spoke for fifteen minutes until the sheriff reminded him 'Time is going.' Then he dropped" [McDade].

Hughes, though married, lived a life "of indulgence, dissipation and moral and physical abandon." His interesting life in and out of prison is described in detail. A Civil War veteran, he was assigned as a surgeon to the 48th Regiment, U.S. Colored Troops. In December 1864 he deceived young Miss Parsons by pretending he was available to marry her, "under cover of a forged bill of divorce from his loving wife." Hughes's lawyer mounted a defense of "hereditary insanity." The pamphlet summarizes the testimony of witnesses, the arguments of counsel, the judge's charge to the jury [which includes a long discussion of the insanity defense], the verdict of guilty, Dr. Hughes's "final arraignment," his efforts to "secure a commutation," his attempt to kill himself with morphine, the execution, and his farewell letter to his wife and children.

Philadelphia: Mifflin & Parry, 1832. Original printed tan paper wrappers, stitched. [iv], 37, [1 blank] pp. Errata page precedes the Report. Untrimmed, light foxing and wear, Very Good.

The authors were a Commission "to proceed to Canada, with the object of instituting an inquiry concerning the Malignant Cholera prevailing there as an epidemic." They discuss its genesis with a sick Steamer passenger and a boarding house emigrant. The authors are stunned by "the almost unexampled rapidity with which the disease advanced in Montreal," attributable [as well as in Quebec] to poor public sanitation, unprepared public officials, and massive "intemperance in the use of ardent spirits." The "immense body of emigrants who had lately landed at Quebec" in overcrowded vessels, mostly from Ireland, brought the disease to the heartland. Detailed history of medical symptoms and the progress of the disease are included.

The authors conclude that Philadelphia's superior public health and sanitation facilities preclude an epidemic of similar intensity. An item rarely offered by the trade or at auction. FIRST EDITION. TPL [First Supp.] 4986. Sabin 62131. AI 14212 [5]. Not in Decker, Eberstadt. (19366) $750.00

Of all the maladies by which mankind are assailed, none is more afflictive and distressing to relatives, or more deplorable and mortifying to the sufferers themselves than nervous affections, such as palsy, fits, insanity, &c." 58. [New York City]: QUESTIONS OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH, IN RELATION TO MALIGNANT CHOLERA, WITH THE ANSWERS OF THE SPECIAL MEDICAL COUNCIL: TOGETHER WITH A REPORT UPON THE CAUSES OF THE CESSATION OF CHOLERA AT BELLEVUE. PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH. New York: Peter Van Pelt, 1832. 14, [2 blanks] pp. Stitched, scattered dustsoil, untrimmed, Good+.

The Special Medical Council answers questions about New York City's epidemic of Malignant Cholera: its prevention, mitigation, appropriate public health procedures. "All local sources of impure exhalations, such as privies, sinks, sewers, pools of water, should be cleansed; the dwellings of the poor should be thoroughly cleansed and whitewashed; they should be prevented from congregating in large numbers; and crowded houses should be emptied."

At Bellevue, the Council says, constant vigilance and precaution have curbed the disease. FIRST EDITION. Not in AI, Sabin, Eberstadt, Decker. OCLC 864111721 [1- BIBLIOTECA NACIONAL DE ESPANA], 1029918045 1- Harv. Med. School] as of June 2019. (15336) $375.00

SUBMITTED TO THE PUBLIC EXAMINATION OF THE FACULTY OF PHYSIC, UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE TRUSTEES OF COLUMBIA COLLEGE IN THE STATE OF NEW-YORK: WILLIAM SAMUEL JOHNSON, LL.D. PRESIDENT; FOR THE DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF PHYSIC; ON THE THIRTIETH DAY OF APRIL, 1793. New-York: T. and J. Swords, Printers to the Faculty of Physic of Columbia College, 1793. 29pp, plus three blanks. Disbound, else Very Good. The verso of the title page has the Imprimatur in type of Samuel Mitchill, the well-known New York physician who taught at Columbia College. The dissertation is dedicated to two of Post's professors.

Post evidently never practiced medicine, despite his graduation from Columbia. Instead, he entered the drug-importing business, was active in New York City politics, a director of New York Hospital [1798-1802], and a single-term Federalist Congressman [1813-1815]. He died in 1817.

65. Robinson, Samuel: A COURSE OF FIFTEEN LECTURES, ON MEDICAL BOTANY, DENOMINATED THOMSON'S THEORY OF MEDICAL PRACTICE; IN WHICH THE VARIOUS THEORIES THAT HAVE PRECEDED IT ARE REVIEWED AND COMPARED. DELIVERED IN CINCINNATI, OHIO. BY SAMUEL ROBINSON. WITH INTRODUCTORY REMARKS BY THE PROPRIETOR. Columbus: Printed for the Proprietor, 1830 [1831?]. 162pp. Bound in original quarter leather with paper covered boards [well worn], hinges starting. Scattered foxing, lightly age toned. Old ownership inscription on front pastedown, "A. Sims His Book." A few instances of contemporary marginalia. Good+.

The first edition issued from Columbus in 1829. The title page carries an 1830 imprint, but Samuel Thomson's letter To the Public at page [5] is dated January 1831; and an advertisement at page [6] is dated March 21, 1831. Thomson's prefatory letter assures that, if his system is "carried into effect, nine tenths of the sickness, and consequent wo and misery which now distorts and distracts the human species, would be banished from among us." Robinson was an enthusiastic advocate of Thomson's botanic system of medicine.

Swett, Book and Job Printer, 1846. 21, [3 blank] pp. Disbound, closely trimmed at bottom margin, with several words or portions thereof lost from the last line of pages 14-16, 19. Good+.

Dr. Shirley's rare pamphlet discusses diseases of teeth and gums, children's teeth, permanent teeth, correcting the mal-arrangement of teeth, cleaning teeth, filling teeth, extracting teeth, artificial teeth, toothaches.

George Yates Shirley received his Doctor of Medicine degree at Illinois College Medical School in 1845. He was a member of the Illinois State Homeopathic Medical Association, and the Sons of Temperance, Excelsior Division No. 25. While some online family sources and census records note his birth in Virginia in 1805, other sources such as the U.S. Federal Census Mortality Schedule list his birth in Kentucky around 1820 and dying by paralysis in 1870. 69. Simons, Thomas Y.: A REPLY TO A PAMPHLET BY S. HENRY DICKSON, M.D. ENTITLED STATEMENTS, &C. Charleston: Printed by A.E. Miller, 1834. 30pp, stitched, untrimmed. Very Good+.

This pamphlet explains the controversy between South Carolina's Medical Society and its Medical College. The Medical Society created the Medical College in the 1820s. Dickson, a physician, helped to found the College; Simons, a leader of the Medical Society, would exercise control over the College. But the College faculty, including Dickson, was unhappy with Society rule and resigned in 1832. The parting was unpleasant; competing pamphlets issued on the contentious issues, this one accusing Dickson of "sarcastic taunts and angry vituperations." The departed faculty would open another medical school.

Unable to compete, the Medical Society would relinquish its control in 1839 and the two medical schools merged.

Original pictorial, leather-backed boards [rebacked]. 160pp, frontis engraving of Sloan's Depot and the American Temperance [sic] House. Moderately foxed, Good+.

The first edition probably issued from Chicago in 1848, and the "third" in 1849. This edition is quite scarce in its own right. "Walter B. Sloan was the first patent medicine 'king' of Chicago. His cures for man and beast were sold widely in the West." Byrd 1314. With a section on definitions "of words not in general use," and a variety of potions and recipes, the book also includes testimonials to the remarkable qualities of Sloan's 'Family Ointment,' "universally acknowledged to be an infallible remedy ...for promoting insensible perspiration, drawing out the inflammation from a wound, relieving pain of every kind."

The first 112 pages comprise 'The Complete Farrier;' and, with its own title page but continuous pagination, pages [113]-160 'The Complete Cattle Doctor.'

AIMAR, CORNER KING AND VANDERHORST STREETS, CHARLESTON, S.C. [Charleston: 1860s]. Broadside, 10" x 7.5", in a variety of bold typefaces. Attractive, rare, and Very Good.

Aimar's was a legendary South Carolina pharmacy, established in 1852. When it closed in 1978, the Smithsonian purchased its contents. It had evidently been the oldest American drugstore in continuous operation. It opened in a handsome multi-story building at King and Vanderhorst, built in 1808, where it remained as a family business for 125 years. During the Civil War the building served as a dispensary and hospital for the Confederacy while its owner, George W. Aimar, was a lieutenant in the Lafayette Artillery. Not in Hummel, Turnbull, NUC. "In the year 1743 a dreadful fire at Crediton deprived no fewer than four hundred and fifty families of their homes. This awful event awakened all the benevolent sympathies of Mr. Towgood, who exerted himself to the utmost to lessen the affliction. His house and his purse were alike open for the relief of the sufferers... About this time he published a valuable tract on the sentiments suitable to a season of recovery from sickness. It was designed as a present to such of his congregation as had lately been raised from dangerous disorders, and contained serious reflections, resolutions, and devout meditations, suitable to persons in these circumstances. It passed through three editions in this country, besides a large impression in America, under the direction of the author's friend and correspondent, Dr. Mayhew, of Boston, in New England."
